Central City Investment Framework A Proposal for Investment and Quality of Place

The Chicago Central Area Committee (CCAC) is proposing to lead the preparation of a new strategy for Chicago’s central city, in the form of a Central City Investment Framework. This will be a rapid initiative to focus attention on locations where an integrated approach can leverage greater investment. This is also an opportunity to anticipate and resolve emerging challenges and clear the path for enhancements that can benefit all of Chicago.

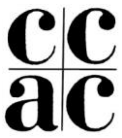

The purpose of the investment framework proposal is to create a clear vision for the direction of the Central City including:

- focus on places with the greatest potential for change
- create a strategy crossing development and infrastructure that can leverage private and public development
- enhance alignment between the public and private sector to create self-sustaining investment
- enhance connectivity between neighborhoods, emerging mixed-use districts, the historic business districts and the government core.

A six-month project schedule would drive progress, and a time horizon to 2030 will give certainty to the plan and allow proposed investments to be linked in a concrete way.
